

Stephen is an attorney with Ivey, Barnum & O'Mara, LLC in Greenwich, Connecticut. Several years ago, early in his career and with an already full plate, Stephen was looking to become more involved in the local community. A colleague introduced him to Inspirica. Stephen was, "inspired by the approach, the hardworking volunteers, and the willingness and appreciation of the clients of Inspirica to take a stand against homelessness."

Currently Stephen serves as Chair of the Inspirica Young Professionals (IYP) Committee which he feels has become, "a powerful voice to broadcast Inspirica's message to the younger Stamford community." When asked why young people should make charitable work a priority, Stephen says, "As the 'Next Great Generation', young professionals will be called on to transition into critical community leadership roles in the coming years. There is no shortage of vibrant, successful, service-oriented young professionals in lower Fairfield County. These are the individuals we hope to reach through the IYP Program."

Congratulations Stephen on recently being named to Fairfield County Business Journal's "40 Under 40"!
